The Christian & Grief

Almost everyone must at some point cope with the struggles associated with death. In view of scriptural teaching and the hope of eternal life, how are Christians to mourn when friends, family members, and brethren pass from this world?

Giving to the Glory of God

Christians are commanded in the New Testament to give generously to God. As we have been blessed with much, we are to dedicate a portion of our earnings, time, and skills to the enrichment of God's kingdom. To this end, the Scriptures provide much wisdom and guidance.
